DEATHS OF A DAY.

Dallas. Tex., Nov. 26.—Judge P. C. Coombs, aleading jurist, theil yesterila y from the result of an operation. He came to Texas from the Salt River country of Kentucky in 18:26. He raised a company at Dallas and served through the war. New Orleans, Nov. 28.—J. Walker Coleman, one of the best known railroad men in the South, died here after a long illness. Berne, Nov. 26.—Dr. Moritz Busch., German minister to Switzerland, died in this city vesterday from heart disease.

Two Washington singers won the hearty approval of the audience at the New National Theater last night. The opera was "Rob Roy," a pretty composition, with its scene in the Scottish Highlands and its action based on incidents in romantic history of Scotland made interesting to all Scotland. English reading people by song and story.

It was rendered brilliantly by Fred C.

Whitney's Opera Company. Lizzie Mac-nichol and William Priett were Washington's contribution to the cast. Miss Mac-nichol's success was amply shown by the enthusiastic appliause that greeted her efforts. Mr. Pruett in the title rule sang with a spirit and finish that would have made the performance acceptable with even ordinary support.

With the intellignet and artistic aid of Juliette Cardon, Richard Curroll, and the gold-trained chorus. rest, supported by a well-trained chorus, the opera gained complete approval. Miss Cardon's heathen song was a decided hit. Without being "catchy," "Rob Roy" is well written and has in it a sustained strength of excellent music that makes it a great favorite wherever it is well presented. It will add much to Mr. De Koven's reputation.

The scenery and costuming presented last night were all that could be desired.

With only a few intermissions for soberness at rare intervals, it is little wonder that the anchence at Allen's Grand Opera House went home tast night with their sides aching from too vehement exercise in aching from too vehement exercise in laughing.

The occasion was the first presentation here of Canary and Lederer's "Merry Workl," a follower in the footsteps of "The Passing Show."
The only thing that is claimed for the "Merry World" is its ability to make a pair of rosy lips reveal a double row of pearly teeth, or a musculine nether lip drop ridiculously far down from a moustache. It is a success.
Louis Granat is an artist as a whistling soloist, and he was compelled to respond to many a warm encore.
David Warfield, in the character of Abanazar, was undoubtedly the star en-Abanazar, was undoubtedly the star en-tertainer of the evening in his diniect stories. La Petite Adelaide, though yet a very young and very little girl, shows an ability to dance that many an older dancer would envy.

Among the other members of the company worthy of mention were: Frank Blair, Amella Summerville, Jeannette Bageard, Kitty Lawrence and Lee Harrison.

"The Old Homestead," with the person "The Old Homestead," with the personality of Denman Thompson omitted, has often been found to somewhat resemble coldslaw without salt, but George W. Wilson last night at the Lafayette Square Opera House, completely obviated this difficulty. As Joshua Whitcomb he portrayed the simplicity of life among the New Hampshire hills.

lls. "The Old Homestead" has lost none of its "The Old Homestead" has lost none of its attractiveness during the dozen years of its existence, having been the first stage creation based upon plain, homely life. "The Messenger from Jarvis Section." and a thousand kindred plays have all had their ephemeral day and been forgotten, but the story of a father's affection and kindness of heart, as told by Denman Thompson, has survived through all these years. The only change of importance has been the substitution of songs by a deable quartet for the dancing done by Eb Ganzy and Rickety Ann.

Ann.

The singing, however, proved to be an excellent feature, the clear tenor voice of R. J. Jose, who attained fame as a minstel, charming his hearers. The stage effects were of the most realistic character. May Irwin, in "The Widow Jones," at the Academy this week, is breezier and brighter than ever. She is like cham-paghe opened by an amateur, when the cork is started the wine begins to sputter and spurt about. In this way it resembles May Irwin's mirth; it is irresistible and looks as though it never would be con-trolled.

looks as though it never would be con-trolled.

"The Widow Jonea" is new; that is, the name is not, but John J. McNally, who wrote "A Straight Tip" and "A Country Sport," has simply arranged a little skit and turned it over to Miss Irwin to carry out to the end. Of this there can be no doubt, and in all probability even its au-thor would not know it at the present time. There are Irwin and Rice finger marks in almost every line.

almost every line.

May Irwin's song, "I Want Ye. Ma May Irwin's song, "I Want Ye. Ma Honey," was sang as only she can sing the negro dialect of the present day. "The New Bully," also rendered by her, was one of the successes of the evening.

In fact, every thing done by either Miss Irwin or the company, was well received by the large audience present. John Rice, the leading man, if there is such a part in the comedy, is decidedly funny. His rendition of "Rosie Was a Galety Girl" made a hit.

Sally Cohen is a bright, sprightly little member of the company, and everything she member of the company, and everything she undertook was well done. Joseph M. undertook was well done. Joseph M. Sparks is an ideal Irishman. George Barmum, as the Italian count, can't be beaten.

Miss Ada Lewis, the tough girl, who distinguished herself in "The Country Sport," was everywhere. She rigged herself up in the way men would dress I they had good taste, as she put it. Her work was of a very high grade. Taken as a whole, the performance was one of the best that has been seen here.

The Rentz-Santley Noveity and Burlesque Company opened last night at Kernan's Lyceum Theater in an extravaganza that promises to have a most successful run during the week. This company has always borne the reputation of carrying first-class specialties and pretty girls. At this, their first sppearance here this season, no one was disappointed, and it may be trathfully said that the company fully upheld their standard.

The performance opened with a one-act skit, "'Twill be Clab," and Winnie Mitchell, in the character of Trilby, made a most decided hit. The skit is bright, and some-The Rentz-Santley Novelty and Burlesqu decided hit. The skit is bright, and some-thing out of the ordinary. Whiting and Sheppard, a musical team; Collins and Col-lins, sketch artists; Lealie and Tenley, Irish comedians, and Carrie Scott, song and dance, did their turns well, and received and dance, do their turns well, and received deserved applause from the large audience.

A series of living pictures were introduced, but they are beginning to pall on the public. The performance closed with a buricaque in three scenes entitled "Robin Hood, Jr." The take-offs of the famous Bostonians were extremely good, and kept the house in a roar of laughter all during the performance.

the performance. CERTAIN OF THE NOMINATION.

Postmaster General Wilson Will Make Another Run for Congress.
It is stated here that Postmaster General Wilson is absolutely certain of being nominated for Congress in his old district in West Virginia next year.
It is postitively known that he is not at all unwilling to make another race for Congress. It is said that his decision to do so was reached some time ago, and that his friends in West Virginia have already set the machinery in motion to secure a unanimous nomination for him.
Doubtless one reason why Mr. Wilson has been induced to egalutum for Congress is to show the country that it will be impossible to defeat him in this district in future. Then, it is said, that he has another ambition, it is said, that he has another ambition, if successful in securing re-election, and that is to came to the Senate in place of either Mr. Faulkner or Senator Elkins, when the latter's term expires six years when the latter's term expires six years hence.

Mr. Wilson believes that West Virginia is really a Democratic State, and that six years from now the legislature which will elect Mr. Elkins' successor will be Democratic instead of Republican, and if he remains in political life that long he will stand a very good chance of being elevated stand a very good chance of being elevated to the upper branch of Congress. Of course, Mr. Wilson will not be compelled to retire as Postmaster General, even if elected next fall, until the expiration of Cleveland's Repeatedly does the desk sergeant experience difficulty in catching grant experience difficulty in catching the names of the men as they make their nourly reports through the boxes. This is distressing, and when information of importance to the department is sought to

This is also the case to a certain degree in the First precinct. In some of the newer precincts, like the Ninth and the Fifth, he service is better. Another improvement urged is that more operators be employed at headquarters. At present there are but two men on duty, and these operators handle all the stuff passible operators handle all the stuff passible operators.

ing between the various precincts, school-houses, and all the offices of the District government, as well as the fire alarm service. The work is alleged to be too heavy for two men, and it is urged that one man should be employed especially for the fire service. The pay of the operators is small, being about $50 per month, while in addition to the arduousness of the task, the respon-sibility of the position is great.
